

FINDS HUSBAND DEAD;
POLICE INVESTIGATEAutopsy Will Be Performed to Learn What Killed George
Odenwelder, Recently Wed.

Detectives of Bayonne, N. J., are investigating the sudden death of George Odenwelder, twenty-nine years old, of No. 25 West Twenty-eighth Street, Bayonne, N. J., who was found dead in bed at midnight last night by his wife of a few months. Odenwelder held a responsible position with the Standard Oil Company of Bayonne.

Odenwelder retired at 9 o'clock last night. His wife sat up until midnight. When she found him dead she became hysterical and ran only partially clad to the Bayonne Police Station.

County Physician King was summoned and ordered an autopsy. According to the police, no marks of violence were on the man's body. Odenwelder had been married about six months and was a conspicuous figure in the recent Standard Oil strikes in Bayonne.

The Exhibition of

Chinese Embroideries

THE EXHIBITION and sale of Chinese Embroideries and Japanese Brocades continues with increasing enthusiasm! So extensive is this marvelous collection that to come once is but a tantalization—and to come again means a revelation of beautiful things overlooked before. There are Mandarin Coats of every description—elaborately embroidered in symbolic designs of exquisite colors. The immortal dragon and jade rock designs—butterflies and floral interpretations adorn every one of them.

The Chinese hangings, altar cloths, priests ceremonial robes, wall and screen panels are most adaptable for decorative purposes. Some modern—others 115 to 165 years old.

The Japanese collection is fully as complete, with its furoshiki and obi of gorgeous brocades in Oriental colors. To know the significance of these interesting things makes their American acceptance the more fascinating. You cannot afford to miss this exhibition. Low prices—an additional attraction.
